

ESG Data Management with a focus on financial reporting

GOALS

The purpose of corporate data is to allow both management and stakeholders to make decisions and take actions that maximize benefits to the company and to stakeholders. It is a foundational building block of managing and reporting on business-critical issues. Poor data leads to poor decisions and even poorer results – as the popular computer science saying goes: garbage in, garbage out (“GIGO”).

Data management is the practice of collecting, keeping, and using data securely, efficiently, and cost-effectively. The goal of ESG data management is helping “people, organizations, and connected things to optimize the use of data within the bounds of policy and regulation so that they can make decisions and take actions that maximize the benefit to the organization.” Good ESG data management helps ensure that users trust and have confidence in the data to be fit for its intended purpose, without the need for manual alignment or data reconciliation.
